The President's Message

SPECIAL MEMBERSHIP MEETING

Tanya Whitford, Organizing Wonders

Come one, come all to the Membership Meeting in September. Several other NAPO Chapters have a yearly Town Hall or Membership Meeting, and we decided to do it as well. The meeting is open to our members only, enabling us to have an open and honest discussion.

What will we talk about? That depends. What do you want to talk about? At the August meeting, members had an opportunity to write down exactly what they feel needs to be discussed. These suggestions will serve as the foundation for the first part of the September agenda. This will be an opportunity to voice your opinion, to discuss which NAPO-LA changes are working and which are not, and to share your vision for our organization in the future. What do you need from NAPO-LA? How are your needs being met? How are they not? Is there something you have been wanting to ask? Ask! Is there an idea you have wanted to share? Share!

The Board is busy compiling the results from the 2002 Membership Survey that was initiated in August.

These results will be shared at the meeting, and one lucky member who completed the survey will win free Basic Dues for the new year. Not bad for answering a few questions.

The second half of the meeting will be a Product Spotlight. A clipboard was passed around at the August meeting so that members could sign up for a chance to share their favorite products, services or companies with the group. There are a limited amount of slots for this section, so if you didn't already sign up, contact Justine Miceli at JustineMiceli@napola.org before the 15th of September. We all get excited about a new product we found or a new use for something ordinary. Sometimes the person with whom we share that news just doesn't understand how it will change the world! Well, in this room we would love to see what you have: "Oohhs" and "aahhs" are guaranteed!

I hope to see you all at the Membership Meeting. It will be an exciting and wonderful evening shared by friends and colleagues.

THE BEAUTY OF ORGANIZING

Glorya Belgrade Schklair, The Practical Organizer

Q: How might we view the spiritual or abstract side of what we do and evaluate the impact that our work has on people's lives?

A: This is a fresh look at the work of professional organizers. I believe there is intrinsic beauty in what we accomplish for our clients. My inspiration is a critique I read that describes four levels of ability as revealed in various forms of beauty. My belief is that this model will work for us, too.

The first level of ability is Capable. At this level, the practitioner has the skill to seek and obtain the same results over and over in the same way, without adding creativity. The results are successful, albeit repetitious.

The second level is Competent. This level goes beyond ordinary capability. Competence conveys the employment of bold strengths while utilizing simple, innovative creativity.

The third level of ability is Outstanding. When an organizer's work is outstanding, the recipient, or client, senses the inspired creativity. He or she can perceive the skill of the organizer but cannot describe the joy of what is transpiring.

The fourth level is Effortless. The effort that produced what has been accomplished appears to be, in retrospect, so simple that a sense of acceptance takes over, communicating peace from what was once chaos.

Please e-mail any comments about this month's question to me at glorya@schklair.com. I will include them in next month's column.

You're probably starting to get that feeling in the pit of your stomach now, the one that always used to come around when school started and the seasons began to change. I grew up on the East Coast, where seasons actually do change. This month, the last one of summer, I want to highlight several sites that may be useful to your clients.

Have you ever had a client who wanted to switch from a dialup internet connection to a DSL or cable connection, but you didn't know what companies in the area were providing the service? Here's a great site: all you do is type in your client's address, and the high-speed connection options for that area are conveniently displayed.

Click Here: <http://www.broadbandcompass.com/search/display?partnerID=cabl emodem>

Ever have a client with too many file drawers? I do, and you can be sure I'll suggest this nifty solution to converting a file drawer into a desk drawer—leaving room for files, too—using little mesh baskets that hang from the file rails. Some hold CDS or pens.

Here's a wonderful site for list-makers. It has plenty of lists and tips for travelers, including dated checklists to follow three weeks before you go, then Office Depot, Office Max, Amazon, Petsmart, Barnes and Noble, Stacks and Stacks, and Dell are just some of the amazing companies that will pay our chapter a percentage of each sale they make as a result of our shopping with them at their websites. We have made it so easy for you. All you have to do is go to our NAPO-LA website, then go to the Member Portal and click on the Mall. Once in the Mall, you can set up a custom shopping list of the stores you frequent most.

Just think of the funds that our chapter will collect when our membership uses these links. If you have additional questions on this exciting element of the website, please feel free to ask anyone on the website committee.

two weeks before you go, then one week, etc. Also available are hotel, airfare, theme park and packing tips along with other checklists!

Have you ever had a client who bought a new computer and asked you to transfer the data from their old computer to the new one? Here is a great site on how to do that with the Direct Cable Connection. It's actually pretty simple, but time-consuming. Alas, it's for Windows users only.

TONI SCHARFF, THE SIMPLICITY PROJECT MOOSE-MEAT MINCEMEAT & CANNED ELK NECK

Jean Furuya, The Office Jeanie

Though Southern California has not yet afforded her the following organizing project, Toni Scharff's upbringing in the Rocky Mountains west of Montana did have her spending time cleaning out root cellars and pantries and organizing jars of moose mincemeat and cans of elk neck. She comes from an eclectic background as the daughter of "hunter and gatherer" parents. Her father fed his family of four with deer, elk, antelope and moose. Her ranch-born mother gathered household goods, clothing and "treasures" from garage and lawn sales. While growing up, Toni spent ample time involved in the general operations of keeping a family in order.

After she established her business, The Simplicity Project, here in Santa Monica, Toni found that most of her clients ask for help with paper flow, mail management, filing systems, their home offices and general household organization. She does, however, pack her tool box and work gloves and rolls up her sleeves to dig into garages and attics that are overstuffed—as in first rent a two-ton dumpster. She has a practical, down-to-earth approach.

Her past employment in the fields of education, social work, politics, government, the military, women's health and the law has given her a broad foundation of experience that has served her well in her organizing work.

Above all, Toni believes that today, when people are overwhelmed by their possessions, their busy lives, their appointments, their papers, mail, and just plain stuff, it is necessary to look towards the simple. She works to preach to the masses, so to speak, and to make each new client a "simplicity project."

SHAWNA SMITH: ORGANIZED SOLUTIONS

Talia Eisen, Staff Writer

Shawna Smith is an upbeat, high-energy young woman with a great sense of humor, who's organizing skills have clearly helped to shape and navigate her own life. She is a divorced mother of two with her own business, Organized Solutions. Her children are Jacob, eight and one-half, and Amelia, seven. Shawna not only runs her business, she finds time to volunteer as a Teacher's Aid at her children's school, stays involved in their baseball activities and sits on the board for their Little League. Shawna has Lupus, though it is not in a life-threatening stage. She is quick to explain that she is very open about her Lupus as she feels it is important to raise awareness about this illness, which strikes so many people. Even with so much on her plate, Shawna makes time for herself. She is an avid snowboarder and plays volleyball two nights a week.

Shawna started Organized Solutions five years ago. Her background in insurance, psychology and legal issues helped her form her own business. Many of her clients come to her for her expertise in navigating legal paperwork, preparing for depositions and document preparation. She also does a lot of office organizing, setting up filing systems and computer systems for clients. She is a "full service" organizer with a wide range of specialties for the home and office.

It was being "good with computers" that originally got her the training in the insurance field that would lead to her current career. It is this same strength that NAPO has benefited so greatly from with Shawna. Shawna volunteers as the NAPO LA Webmaster and Database Coordinator. As the Webmaster, she assists Tanya Whitford in developing the website, processing renewals, and working with Membership and general web maintenance. As Database Coordinator, she is programming the database, adding new members, creating and updating the yellow pages, providing reports and lists to other departments and working with membership at renewal time.

Volunteering her invaluable skills to organize NAPO on the web, and NAPO data, she is bringing this chapter into the future and helping to raise the profile of the organizing field.

The Volunteer of the Month is voted on by the Board of Directors and is awarded to a member in recognition of their outstanding contributions to our Chapter. The Winner is announced at each Chapter meeting and will be profiled in this column the following month.

GO WEEK

Jessica Duquette, Treasurer
In Perfect Order

It is that time of year again, time to start thinking about how our Chapter can make a splash and help others at the same time. The National Association of Professional Organizers reserves the second week of October each year as GO Week, or Get Organized Week, and encourages its members and Chapters to increase visibility for the profession by sponsoring events and activities related to organizing that will attract media attention.

This year on Thursday, October 10th, we will be working with Break the Cycle, a wonderful not-for-profit organization devoted to ending domestic violence by working proactively with youth. Break the Cycle furthers this mission by providing young people, ages twelve to twenty-two, with preventive education, free legal services, advocacy and support. We have been to visit, and it is a wonderful place, doing wonderful things. This will be an excellent opportunity for us to do some good for a worthy cause and get some media attention in the process. They will be using their media contacts as well as ours to publicize our assistance. If you have any media contacts, please let us know immediately.

We need at least eight people to be Team Leaders plus twenty to twenty-five or more volunteers. Let us know soon!

For those of you who worked at the LA Free Clinic last year, you will remember what a wonderful and rewarding experience it was. And fun, too! If you are interested, please contact either JessicaDuquette@napola.org or Marilyn Crouch@napola.org.

It's sure to be a rewarding day for new as well as experienced organizers.

PRESERVING NAPO-LA'S HISTORY

Marci Alpert, Essential Organization
 Historian

Are you interested in preserving NAPO-LA's history? Have you attended a NAPO Annual Conference or a NAPO-LA Winter Workshop in the past four years? If so, we need your help!

Our chapter scrapbook contains photos and memorabilia showing the history and achievements of NAPO-LA over the years. In an effort to continue preserving the history of NAPO-LA, we are asking for photos and memorabilia from our chapter members. Your contributions might include a photo from the Annual Conference or Golden Circle Retreat, a brochure highlighting Winter Workshop or an article spotlighting a chapter member. Any items from 1999 through 2002 will be especially appreciated!

If you have a photo or piece of memorabilia to include in the scrapbook, please bring it to Marci Alpert at the next chapter meeting.

TUPPERWARE: IT'S HIP TO BE SQUARE

Chris McKenry,
Tupperware Representative

As organizers, we all know it's hip to be square and Tupperware® products are designed to maximize food storage space; however, Tupperware's Modular Mate® series is the ultimate. Two things keep food fresh and bacteria growth at bay: removing oxygen and maintaining proper temperature.

Modular Mates allow every container to have a permanent position. When stacked together, every inch of space is used. Whatever the style of the kitchen, Custom Kitchen Planning with Tupperware will make your project both attractive and efficient.

Virtually airtight containers prolong the life of staples, keeping foods fresh for longer periods. No more spills, insects or broken glass. Tupperware containers seal and stack snugly. Containers stack up neatly—a "One" stacked on a "Two" equals the height of a "Three." Shapes also work together: two Ovals fit atop a Square; a Square and an Oval fit atop a Rectangle. Individual centers for baking, breakfast, beverage, pasta and beans and snacks offer your clients both function and easy visual monitoring of inventory. (See photo at right.)

Other items for today's kitchen include the new FridgeSmart® containers, which keep fruits and vegetables fresher longer. Using a special vent system, these containers allow fruits and vegetables to breathe. FreezeSmart containers have dials on the lids that tell you how long food has been in the freezer. The Rock 'N Serve® set, made from clear nonbreakable plastic, goes from freezer to microwave to dishwasher.

As if these unique qualities are not enough, Tupperware also has a lifetime guarantee against normal wear and tear. No receipts are needed, and any consultant in any city will provide needed replacements. Tupperware is for Home, for Health, and for Life!

You can order Tupperware at www.getittogetherla.com or contact chrismckenry@attbi.com for more information.

A Professional Organizer and former food industry executive, Chris is a Certified Food Safety Specialist.
